U. S. Opposes Vague Disarmament Schemes of Europe, Kellogg Says

Plain Spoken Message from Secretary of State In Speech Today Conveys to World America's Stand on Arms Question

Plattsburg N Y Aug 18—A plain spoken message on America's disarmament policies was delivered to the world here this afternoon by Secretary of State K Bigg

The American government he said is committed to and will continue support any sincere and practicable plan for reducing the world's burden of competitive armaments But this government will not participate in any vague or ephemeral scheme for reducing armament on the basis of each nation's national wealth and resources such as some of the nations notably France have advanced at the present Geneva conference

Nor will the United States Kellogg said ever agree to the creation of any international agency which would be given power to supervise a nations armament or say when an individual nation was or was not fully armed—another proposal advanced at Geneva

So far as the United States is concerned said Kellogg the execution of any international agreement must depend upon good faith and sincerity treaties We will not accept supervision of any outside body or be subject to inspection or control by foreign agencies

Statue Unveiled

The speech of the secretary of war was delivered here at the unveiling of a statue to the memory of Commodore Thomas McDonough one of the heroes of the war of 1812 but its international importance was attested by the fact that President Coolidge read and approved it before its delivery and by the additional fact that it was cabled to most of the European capitals for simultaneous publication abroad

The American delegation will remain at Geneva so Long as there is any chance of regaining on a suitable basis for reducing armament Kellog said but it was obvious from the tenor of the conference although any further breaking results unless some of the European nations change their attitude

However he mentioned no names

Line of Distinction

Kellogg drew a distinct line of demarkation between trade ban of land and sea armament The United States he said is not vitally interested in land armament other than that it would like to see European armies reduced for European own good As for the American army it already has been cut to 118,000 men about the minimum for police purposes

It will not be practicable he thought to arrange any universal scheme for reducing armies for it is difficult to see the relation of the land armaments of the Far East to those of western Europe or those of North and South America

MEXICAN EPISCOPATE DENIES PEACE REPORT

No Decision To End Suspension of Cult Reached, Church Heads Say

Mexico City Aug 18—Although the Catholic episcopate admits that it is discussing possible means of ending the controversy with the government it was denied today that it has been decided to terminate the suspension of the cult

Whatever off on the episcopate may be making towards peace it appeared today that it had not yet reached a stage where they could be made public and it is believed that there will be no open effort for ending the controversy until the congress meets

Meanwhile the government continues to arrest Catholic men and women who are alleged to have been concerned with the alleged revolutionary plot against the government

The episcopate deprecates these charges of a conspiracy against the government and points out that it has steadfastly counselled against violence

Evidence of the smoldering bitterness that exists throughout the nation was seen in dispatches from Guinanajuato Guerro stating that a schismatic priest had been slain there after he had attempted to conduct services The slayer of the priest was summarily put to death

Net of Evidence Closing Around Mellett Suspect

Prediction That Man Held as Killer Will Admit Guilt Before Nightfall Made by Roach; Plan Removal to Jail Under Heavy Guard

FEDERAL BUILDING, Cleveland Aug 18—A confession by nightfall was predicted at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon by Joseph R Roach, Chicago's clean-up attorney acting in the probe of the Don R Mellett murder which is now revolving about Louis Mazer Canton jungle chief

If this confession is obtained, according to Roach, Mazer will be removed tonight under heavy guard to the Stark County jail at Canton

Sensational charges and testimony that Mazer, accused of the murder, solicited for a fund to kill Mellett shortly before the assassination of the Canton publisher, were to be presented to United States District Attorney A E Bernsteen this afternoon by Bill Smith, an operative of the Hutchinson & Smith Detective Agency, which investigated the recent disappearance of Clark C Baker at Mansfield, it was learned today from an authoritative source

Smith was ushered into the conference chamber of Mazer shortly after noon

Smith said that he had information that Canton jungle chiefs subscribed favorably to the plot

It was also learned that two more mystery witnesses might be called to confront Mazer this afternoon with testimony that Mazer came to Cleveland several months ago to talk over a plan to kill Mellett

Mazer screamed forth defiance and charges hurled at him He called Norman Clark the Canton attorney a dealer, when the former testified Mazer had threatened to bump him off for talking too much about the Mellett killing

Studer Called In

Bernsteen then ordered Carl Studer brought into the conference chamber Clark's affidavits were read to Studer and the federal attorney and his aides began to grill him

When Studer had heard the Clark affidavits read he leaned to Norman Clark and stated

You d—double-crossing shark

While those close to Bernsteen predicted that Mazer would break down today and make a confession of some sort the modern old wags attempting to throw a chill into the prisoner's heart As he was led from the county jail to the federal building a big touring car filled with grim looking men cruised around Mazer plainly showed his worry and several detectives volunteered to be his bodyguards

Calls Off Vacation

That a climax in the investigation was near was seen in the announcement of District Attorney Bernsteen that he had postponed his vacation Bernsteen was scheduled to leave tonight on a hunting and fishing trip He has set off his departure until Friday

Carl Studer was taken into another room from the conference chamber this

They were giving Mazer the hint not to expose or he would be taken for a ride and bumped off one of the investigators who saw the car opened

COUNTY SEEKS C. D. & M. LAND TO BUILD ROAD

Commissioners To Act on Resolution To Condemn Company's Property

Marion County Commissioners Thursday will act on a resolution condemning a portion of the property of the Columbus, Delaware and Marion Electric Co near Newman's bridge, for the purpose of taking over the property and constructing the Marion Marysville pk directly across the tracks

The resolution has been drawn up by an attorney of the State Highway Department of Columbus

If the resolution is passed, according to the statute on which it is based, the county commissioners must appropriate the money for the value of the land needed and place it in the hands of the Probate Court They may then have charge of the property, according to the resolution

Court Dispute

The crossing at Newman's bridge has been in bad condition for some time and has been under dispute in court

When the State Highway Department and county commissioners wished to change the course of the Marysville Marion highway across the C D & M tracks by eliminating the present curve in the road at that point, the C D & M objected and filed an injunction suit in Common Pleas Court, prohibiting the highway department from going straight across the tracks

The C D & M Electric Co contends that the safest way across the tracks in the present path a sharp curve, according to report The highway department holds that the safest path is a straight course

In order to build the road straight across the tracks the highway department must cross a larger portion of the C D & M land and the injunction suit in Common Pleas Court prohibits any progress

With all other portions of the Marysville-Marion highway in Marion County almost completed and ready for traffic, county commissioners Thursday will act upon the resolution condemning the strip of land needed to build the road directly across the tracks

The southern portion of the highway, over which concrete has been poured, will be ready for traffic within a short time, according to county commissioners The northern portion, being treated with Kentucky rock asphalt, will also be completed within a few days.

Ohio Farmer Closes Deal with Museum Profits from Exhibit Mound

Johnstown Aug 18 The skeletons of Indians that the tenants of Fred Butt are digging out of an ancient mound on the Ohio Archeological Museum but the farmer is retaining the usual hot dog privileges—the latter yielding per link already has taken in enough to buy a new outfit to assist in profits as an aggregate

VACATIONS TO END ON SEPT. 6 AT MARYSVILLE

Twelve Hundred School Children Will March Back to Studies on This Date

Marysville, Aug. 18—Both the public and parochial schools of Marysville will open on September 6 this year, bringing to a close the 11 weeks' vacation enjoyed to the fullest extent by the 1200 Marysville school children. The fact that the date set for the beginning of school is Labor Day will result no doubt in the dismissal of the pupils after the assignment of lessons for the next day.

The enrollment in the grades of both East and West building is expected to remain about the same, but a substantial increase will be noted in the enrollment of the high school. About 70 pupils will enter the freshman class of the high school from the Marysville grades, besides a number who will come from the rural districts. Only 35 received diplomas from the high school last spring.

Although most of the personnel of the teaching force will remain the same as last year, several new instructors have been hired by the Board of Education. Houston Tallman, for many years principal of the Peoria schools, will take the place of Samuel Campbell this year, as principal of the East Building. He will be assisted by Miss Sarah Cook, a recent graduate of Ohio University at Athens. These will be the only changes made in the teaching force in the grades.

Miss Fern Mills will begin her second year as the efficient principal of the high school. Mr. Gerald Kingsmore will also continue as director of Athletics. Miss Margaret Fleming, of Columbus, will succeed Miss Alice Yeager, as instructor of Latin. Miss Helen Spurrier of this city will take the place of Miss Annette Otte in the Domestic Science Department, and Mr. W. P. Whittington will have charge of Agriculture, succeeding H. D. Wright.

The Lutheran Parochial school which will have an enrollment of more than 100 pupils the coming year, will also open Sept. 6. Mr. John Bushman will remain as principal as will also his two assistants as teachers.

Hocking Valley Switchmen Drop Game to Studebakers at Crawford County Seat

Bucyrus, Aug. 18—The Studebakers recreational ball team has conquered another Marion team. They defeated the Hocking Valley switchmen here yesterday by a score of 3 to 2.

Two errors in the first inning netted the Marionites their two runs. After that they were helpless before the fast Studys. In the last half of the initial stanza, with Kish on third, Mike Cooney hit a pop fly barely outside the diamond behind third. Ja Stoner dropped the ball, but immediately recovered it and threw it home only too late to get Kish, who scored on the play. Etzinger, the next man up, fanned, ending the frame.

Kish, Martin Cooney and Patton scored for the locals, and C. Gilmore and E. Gilmore for the visitors.

Jack Klingenberger and Etzinger each collected a double and Patton got a home run.

Gruber, pitching for the Marion railroaders, lamed four, but walked three. Johnson only struck out one, but by his uncanny pitching, forced the batters to hit "where they were at." He did not walk anybody.

Lineups were: Hocking Valley switchmen—Wheeler, cf; G. Gilmore, ss; E. Gilmore, 2b; Mittegham, 1b; Gruber, p; Stoner, 3b; Welch, c; Deal, lf; Trimer, rf. DEFENSE PLANS ARE DISCUSSED BY LEGISLATORS

Testimony on Property Valuations To Be Heard Oct. 19 by Utilities Commission

Kenton, Aug. 18—That Kenton City Council plans to bitterly oppose the new gas rate schedule proposed by the West Ohio Gas Co. of Lima, for consumers here, was evidenced Tuesday night at a meeting of the city legislators.

Preliminary plans for the city's defense in the rate war which formally opens on Oct. 19, when the public utilities commission in Columbus hears testimony on valuations of gas properties here, were discussed and formulated.

With the present rate set at $1.00 per 1000 cubic feet, councilmen assert that the proposed rate of the West Ohio is exorbitant and excessive. The company seeks $1.25 for the first 400 cubic feet, with a sliding scale downward for gas in excess of this amount. Officials say the $1.07 flat rate provides insufficient returns on its investment.

The hearing Oct. 19 is for the purpose of arriving at some definite valuation of the West Ohio Gas Co. property here as a rate fixing basis. Following the filing of the new schedule by the Lima concern, Loucks B. Brenner, city solicitor, entered objections in compliance with instructions of city council and the rates to have gone into effect Aug. 1 were suspended for a period of 120 days pending hearing.

Request of engineers and firemen of the municipal waterworks plant here for a five per cent increase in wages or at least a one day vacation per week was renewed last evening. Councilmen will endeavor during the coming two weeks to provide some means for granting this increase.

According to Frank Price, safety director, sufficient funds are not available in the waterworks receipts to permit the increase now. He has suggested a two dollar increase in water rents to provide additional funds in the department.

High Standard Officials.

Last week Cincinnati was threatened with a street railway tieup when orders for a walkout of all employes were issued by union officials. There seemed to be no chance of peace until at the final moment settlement was effected through intercession on the part of the city commission, the official body which controls municipal affairs in the Ohio city under its new and modern form of government.

The agreement reached was satisfactory and fair to both sides. The company retained full rights and powers in the conduct of its business and in the disciplining of employes but the latter were granted the privilege of appealing dismissals ordered by executive officials, final hearing to be before the company's board of directors.

A capably managed city government is in position to render valuable service beyond routine limitations. This is possible when the citizens have confidence in the wisdom, fairness and integrity of those in charge of government. Evidently that was the situation in Cincinnati. There are many communities not fortunate enough to be provided with officials of that caliber. Proposals to have them serve as mediators in any important controversy or to decide any vital question outside of the duties placed upon them by law would be received with ridicule. But cities which have executive heads not qualified for the handling of important matters have only themselves to blame. It is within the power of the voters of every community to place their governmental affairs in the hands of men deserving of absolute trust and confidence in every problem and emergency. The sad feature of the "rule of the people" system is that office-holders are not always chosen because of their wisdom and capacity for handling big and important projects.

Importance of "Keeping Fit."

Medical and health experts tell us that it is important and essential for men and women to consult a doctor and undergo a thorough examination at regular intervals, a year being designated as the average minimum. This should be done without fail even though we may regard ourselves as absolutely sound mentally and physically. There may be flaws and incipient ailments which are dormant but menacing and the time to get at them is before they cause irreparable damage.

Precautions and treatment that are beneficial for individuals are frequently just as helpful and valuable for groups and organizations of individuals. A city needs to undergo a rigid examination occasionally. It may be in apparently good health but in reality be afflicted with hidden ailments that threaten its vigor and progress. There are dangers existent even during what we refer to joyously as "boom periods." Just as men and women are inclined to become careless during the years they are blessed with perfectly working physical organisms and material prosperity, so may communities neglect elements of vital importance while things are moving smoothly.

Marion, like many other cities of the growing class, has probably been lacking in the past in this important matter. Marion has failed, through its official representatives and serious civic organizations, to submit itself to periodic examinations. That is one of the chief reasons why the city is now carrying excessive municipal debt and the customary uncomfortable tax rate which invariably goes with heavy indebtedness. A thorough inspection and analysis of governmental conditions ten years ago, with a repetition of the same procedure annually thereafter, would have prevented this unpleasant condition.

Where this work of safeguarding health and progress must be handled by an expert examining physician in the case of an individual, with a city it falls upon the community itself. It must be a process of thorough introspection, with the city diagnosing its own ills, detecting its own faults, and prescribing its own remedies.

As men and women grow older their arteries, the life-giving channels of the body, tend to harden and clog. To remedy and repair this is extremely difficult, often impossible, should neglect continue too long. In that respect, communities have a distinct advantage. Are in an asset to the city which keeps in step or a step ahead of the times. Its arteries may lapse into a state of poor repair and cause temporary damage but never get to the point where restoration is impossible.

The Kiwanis club has called attention to the deplorable condition of two of Marion's principal streets, Main and Center. The club has not enlightened citizens on that point. The fact that these thoroughfares have been a community eyesore and a detriment to business and general welfare has long been recognized by everybody. The Kiwanians, however, have been thoughtful and wise enough to take the initiative in a movement to bring about the sadly needed work of reconstruction.

Leadership is the first requisite in a project of this sort and the Kiwanis club has chosen to fill that important role. Starting a movement is one thing and keeping it going is another. If Marion is to have its two busiest thoroughfares restored so as to serve the community with a full measure of effectiveness, other civic organizations must follow the lead of the Kiwanians and keep the project alive until tangible results are achieved.

Members of the city council remind us that the municipality's heavy bonded indebtedness stands as an obstacle to the street improvement proposal. Unfortunately that situation does exist. Careful municipal management during the next year or so will provide a remedy, however. The Kiwanis club has pointed out one of the city's most serious ailments and urged that a cure be provided as soon as possible.

Streets, especially those which serve the business district, are the city's arteries, the channels which carry the life-blood of the community. Business can not thrive to the utmost unless these arteries are in perfect working order.

And as we are seeking a remedy for this trouble, why not resolve to give Marion the "once over" at frequent intervals in order to forestall future ailments? Detecting and checking community weaknesses in their incipiency costs vastly less than permitting unsatisfactory conditions to continue over a period of years.

Say what you want to about Mussolini but he has not, so far as we can recall, joined in the European demand that the United States cancel the war debts.

Advice to Motorists.

Advice and suggestions of real value to motorists are offered by Mrs. D. C. Gallagher, secretary of the Marion Automobile Club. One day last week in a statement given to the press she urged drivers to be more considerate of one another's rights and comforts, declaring that this constitutes one of the most vital problems of modern traffic. She called attention in particular to the practice of motorists expressing displeasure by sounding a tumultuous blowing of horns whenever some unfortunate happens to stall his engine in the midst of traffic. They do this in spite of the fact that practically all of them have experienced virtually the same difficulty that has befallen the driver causing the blockade and are likely at any time to find themselves again in a similar predicament.

This is only one example of motorists' failure to follow the rules and customs of common courtesy. Automobile riding would be much more pleasurable on both city streets and rural thoroughfares and accidents would be far less numerous if every driver at all times bore in mind the importance of helping contribute to his fellow travelers' comfort and safety.

As long as the predominant tendency is to keep ahead of the other fellow and to risk life and limb in order to maintain speed, even though there may be absolutely no reason for haste, the chances for having the rules of courtesy observed are rather slim.

FOOTPRINTS IN THE SANDS OF TIME

Constant Work Shortens Life.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Not long ago the Presbyterian ministers drafted a code of ethics and submitted it to the New York Presbytery. This document was divided into three parts: Personal standards, relations with the parish, relations with the profession.

Since doctors rarely hold a convention without discussing our code of ethics, I was much interested in the proposed ministerial code. Two sections relating to personal standards I wish to quote:

"Part of the minister's service as a leader of his people is to reserve sufficient time for serious study in order thoroughly to apprehend his messages, keep abreast of current thought and develop his intellectual and spiritual capabilities.

"It is equally the minister's duty to keep physically fit. A weekly holiday and an annual vacation should be taken and used for rest and improvement."

Why isn't this good advice for all of us?

There is in the nature of every man a social and spiritual field which requires cultivation. We are bound to miss much of the joy of life if this field is neglected.

One of the evils of modern life, as I see it, is the lack of opportunity for study and reflection. The other day we read about the trip of Thomas Jefferson's gig from Monticello to Philadelphia. Mounted on an automobile chassis, it did in a few hours what required six days when Jefferson drove it to the capitol, a hundred and fifty years ago.

The conditions of his day forced upon Jefferson time which could be used no other day than in study and meditation. We need to order our affairs so that in our day we may have time for self-examination. Soul growth is impossible otherwise.

I endorse what the preachers said about that. They are abreast of fact, too, when they point out the importance of health. It is a sinful neglect of duty to overlook the needs of the body.

I don't care whether you are a preacher, a doctor, a lawyer, a farmer or a housewife. No matter what your calling in life may be, your career will be stunted and stunted unless you keep physically fit. Fundamental to success in any field is a foundation of good health.

If a preacher needs a weekly holiday and an annual vacation, you need one too. Everybody should have time which may be used for rest and improvement.

To work seven days every week, year in and year out, means that your life will be shortened about fifteen per cent. One seventh of your length of days is likely to be cut off from your career.

But this isn't all. If you work seven days a week your productivity will be materially decreased. Year in and year out, a six-day worker will produce much more than a seven-day worker.

Everybody, especially the housewife, should have an annual vacation. The chief value of it may be to make you appreciate your own home and job, but it is refreshing and helpful, adding to health and vigor.

Let us adopt the ministers' code. It is good.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

The question as to whether the United States is a thinking nation is often debated. A strong argument for the negative is furnished by the fact that only fifty per cent of the voters vote at a national election, and not more than one in four at a primary election. People who think even a little vote. People who think a man vote right. It is a serious question if this country would not do well to return to the idea of the founders and have representative government instead of an attempt at government directly by the people under the primary system. Look over public officials now and compare them with public officials of some years ago and you may conclude that delegates in convention picked better candidates than primaries do—with a handful voting.

If you have as much as $42.01 in your pocket or in a bank you can feel pretty good about it. That is the average amount of money in circulation in this country per person. If you haven't that much the chances are you are not a reasonably thrifty person. Saving is not altogether a matter of money. It is a matter of principle. It is not what you save—it is what per cent of your income you save. Everybody who has a fair wage ought to put aside a part.

If your child has a weakness for playing the saxophone do not be too down-hearted. Investigation shows that students of music are twenty-five per cent more efficient in their other lessons than children who have never taken any music lessons. There are compensations even for slide trombones and bazoos.

Americans go to Vienna to study medicine and surgery, to Paris to study art, to Oxford to study history and English literature and many other things. But Europeans are coming to America to study some things. American dentists are the best in the world and are so recognized abroad. Now we are getting the most completely equipped hospitals. In Leland Stanford, Dartmouth, Antioch, Berea, Kentucky, Williams and others we are beginning to have the most useful colleges yet devised.

Ten other day fifty-three employes of Selfridge's, London's largest department store, arrived in New York for a three weeks study of American department stores. Harry Selfridge, head of the store, learned his business with Marshall Field & Company, Chicago.

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

The worst story I heard today was told to me by an Englishman. As Shakespeare so aptly said "the story is the thing." There is no use telling what Englishman told it, besides there is a libel law in England.

A man and his wife were driving an old horse and buggy along a country road. The road was narrow, but there was grassy level ground on each side of the road. As they proceeded a farmer drove a heavy loaded farm wagon out of a field on to the road, making it impossible to pass unless you drove out around him. The farmer said: "Do you mind just pulling around on the grass, Lady?"

"Mind?" snapped the lady. "Of course, I mind. You must back your team."

"It's a heavy load ma'am and the horses is tired, if you don't mind," answered the farmer.

"You ought to have thought of that before you pulled out there. You ought to have known I was coming," said the lady.

Then the husband interrupted, just in time to get himself in dutch: "Pull around, my dear."

"I shall do nothing of the sort. I won't pull around, and it's just like you to fail to give me your moral support in a crisis of this kind."

A smile came over the old farmer's face. "I'll back my team, Mister," he said. "I understand, I got one of them at home, too."—Copyright, 1926.

Who's Who and Why.

GOVERNOR JOHN J. BLAINE.

Having served Wisconsin as governor for nearly six years, John J. Blaine now seeks pastures new and is a candidate for the senatorial nomination at the Republican primaries on September 7.

Blaine opposes Senator Lenroot on his record as a supporter of the Coolidge policies. Blaine, the candidate of the La Follette machine, has pledged Wisconsin voters that if nominated and elected he will fight Coolidge on all the latter's major policies, particularly the World court.

Blaine is a native of Grant county, Wisconsin, where he was born on May 4, 1875. He entered the practice of law at Boscobel, Wisconsin, in 1897. Shortly thereafter he became mayor of the town, an office he held for three terms. He was a member of the Wisconsin senate, 1909-13; attorney general of Wisconsin, 1919-21, and has been governor of the state since the latter year.

What is planned to be one of the most elaborate water carnivals ever given on the Atlantic coast was opened today at Norfolk, Virginia.

Thirty-five years ago today occurred the great storm at Martinique, which destroyed all the shipping in the port, killed 340 persons and did property damage to the extent of $10,000,000.

Roanoke Island, located in Pimlico Sound, North Carolina, donned its best dress today to celebrate the three hundred and thirty-ninth anniversary of the birth of Virginia Dare, the first white child born on the North American continent. Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador to the United States, delivered the address at the anniversary exercises.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Aug. 18—New York will always show royal visitors a good time, but will not take them too seriously. The town will shower the air with confetti, furnish platoons of motorcycle escorts, cheer, wine and dine them. But refuses to truckle.

Democracy gushes to the surface. The Prince of Wales found it on every hand. He was not addressed as "His Royal Highness" save at most formal gatherings. Reporters called him "Prince," plied him with questions, cheered him cigarets and went their way.

If he kept them waiting too long, they were polite, but firm notes asking his presence. It is related that one scribe, the morning following a rather late party, greeted the prince with, "How does the old head feel today?" And the prince chuckled.

A maharajah arriving one Saturday sent his secretary to tell the reporters he would receive them the following Tuesday afternoon at 4. And they laughed heartily, too—what with two hours time before the next edition.

They simply "crashed the gate" and sat in the bed-room until the mystified maharajah came out of his bath. Discovering he spoke fluent English they told him coldly that they were not used to such treatment and the potentate unlimbered.

On the recent visit of the Crown Prince and Princess of Sweden a gay little tabloid headlined it with: "Big Swede and Swedie Arrive." No disrespect was intended. It is said the prince enjoyed most of all a typical business man's serve yourself luncheon.

A nation that refers democratically and respectfully to its chief executive as "Cal" refuses to submit to a hypocritical cringe at a flash of purple. New York's attitude toward royalty is kindly, but bluff, which is as it should be perhaps. Gloria's marquis is still "Hank" by the way.

"No!"

"Well you will be tomorrow."

Millions for improvement of Central park is good news for New Yorker for this breathing spot so near the great heart beat of a city was growing shabby. The park offers a pleasant relief from the incoherent thunder with wisteria bowers, sheep meadows, expansive mall, smooth lakes and cool graveled paths. It came nearly being turned over to the city once for building expansion. Roosevelt, I believe, saved it.

Vagrant Verse.

POPLARS.

By day, these tall gaunt poplars are but trees
Yet in the night, held in the moon's embrace,
Their supple bodies lean upon the breeze.
And sway as in a dance, with plumelike grace.
All in a row they stand, virgins who wait
Their turn to walk with Love through heaven's gate,
And waiting, sighing, lift their silver spars
In patient supplication to the stars.
Or are the poplars where the winds intone.
The slim cathedral spires of the wood.
Where ancient folk with ritual long unknown
Worshiped their gods of evil and of good?
Night after night I feel their mysteries
And wake each morn to find them, only trees.

The Doone Valley.

[Boston Post.]

Tennyson's birthplace is for sale, as is the early home of Thomas Gray. There must be hundreds of admirers of "Crossing the Bar" and "Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard" who would like to own the dwellings of poets so beloved. But even greater envy must be stirred by the announcement that any one possessed of sufficient money can buy the Doone valley.

Thousands who have never been there know just how Bagworthy Water looks and how the grim valley looks, when winter grips it. It would be an enticing district to have and to hold for there is no small section of the earth that has ever seemed quite so delectably romantic to so many people as the countryside where Lorna Doone and John Ridd lived and loved. It is to be hoped, for the sake of future American tourists, that the valley will not be cut up into small farms, but will be sold to a pleasantly-sentimental millionaire who will not object to visitors.

High Tide at Panama.

[Adventure.]

While it is contrary to the usual idea, there is really no difference in the mean level of the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans, yet the difference in the tides at Panama is about eighteen feet. This is due to the shape of the Bay of Panama. As the tide sweeps the Pacific into this bay it meets a funnel-shaped shore line, which gradually contracts as the tide travels landward. The result is that the tide rises higher and higher until it reaches a maximum of ten feet above the average sea level. When it flows out of the bay it reaches a point ten feet below the average sea level, thus giving a tidal fluctuation of twenty feet. This same rise of an excessive tide may also be observed at the Bay of Fundy. On the Atlantic at the zone the tidal fluctuation is only two feet.

Thirty-Five Marion Civil War Veterans Attend Joint Dinner Given By Auxiliaries

About 35 out of 50 members of Coop er Post, No. 117, G. A. R., were honor guests at dinner today at the annual joint picnic given by members of the Woman's Relief Corps, Corporal Harris Circle, No. 85, Ladies of the G. A. R. and Daughters of Veterans in the Community Home, S. High-st. Covers were placed for about 125 tables centered with baskets of summer blooms, and baskets of flowers added a decorative note to the hall where the guests enjoyed a social hour.

Members of the post saluted the large American flag flying from the front of the building and marched to the patriotic music furnished by members of the post drum corps. G. B. Willis, Schuller Fogleson and J. B. Layton. The flag is the gift of A. H. Hayes of Cooper Post, to members of the patriotic organizations and is always to be found flying from the building when any one of the organizations meet. Members of the drum corps furnished a program of patriotic music preceding the dinner.

Many More Than 80

Among the guests today are many of the comrades who are past 80 years of age and also several of the Ladies of the G. A. R., who are in the 80's. Perhaps no one's spirits are gayer than Samuel Johnson, 88, a member of the corps, who has been making his home in Kankakee, Ill., and who will leave tomorrow by motor for Los Angeles, Cal. This is Mr. Johnson's first trip to the coast and he is looking forward to the journey with the joyful anticipation of a 16-year-old. "Why shouldn't I go, I have been working all summer," Mr. Johnson said in discussing his trip. He will accompany his grandson, Harry Johnson, of Los Angeles, who is visiting relatives here. They plan to take about 15 days for the journey.

BELLAIRE CHIEF FACES REMOVAL

Bellaire, Aug. 18—Chief of Police Clarence E. Corbett, once ousted and then reinstated by the civil service commission, will be asked to resign as soon as he returns from Buffalo, N. Y., where he is attending the annual convention of the Fraternal Order of Police, it was learned here today.

No reason was offered except that serious charges regarding conduct will be made with Mayor Floyd Conwell. If the request is not complied with.

Corbett was acquitted by the civil service commission of various charges recently after he had been suspended by higher officials.

MELLETT MURDER

afternoon for a talk with his attorneys. As he was leaving the room, he was asked what he knew.

"I don't know a thing except that I am enjoying my stay in Cleveland immensely," Studer answered.

Norman Clark, the Canton attorney on whose story the investigators pin great hopes in the probe, faced Mazer in Bernstein's office today.

Clark was to tell the story of threats made by Mazer to "bump him off" if he didn't stop talking about the Mellett murder.

As the hearing was re-opened, United States District Attorney A. E. Bernstein cautioned Clark that his story "had better stand up" or he would find "it doesn't pay to trifle with the federal government."

The majority of the investigators were confident that Clark's story would supply the final impetus that would break down Mazer's denials.

The spotlight in the probe was expected to be thrown on two women today.

One Is Poison Victim

One is a 21-year-old girl whose identity has been carefully withheld by investigators while she is recovering in a Canton hospital from the effects of poison which she says was administered her by Canton underworld characters because she "knew too much about the Mellett murder."

The other woman is Dolly Carey, pretty sweetheart of Louis Mazer, movie central figure in the month-old investigation.

Both women will be witnesses. With Dolly Carey will probably be brought the German police dog said by Detective George Armstrong, assistant to Ora Slater, to have been in the automobile several nights before the Mellett shooting when Pat McDermott, Mazer and Steve Kascholk, according to the latter's testimony, drove from Massillon to Canton to look over Mellett's home.

Dolly has thus far maintained that Mazer, who she said was only a boarder in her home, was innocent. She refused to tell where Mazer was the night of the slaying, saying:

"That's for Louis to talk about."

Expected To Tell All

Investigators believed that the girl will tell all she knows when she appears before the keen-eyed, suave voiced district attorney.

No phase of Mazer's past life will be left unrevealed today, according to Bernstein.

Another witness who will confront Mazer today will be a hotel man who is expected to identify Mazer as the man who brought Patrick McDermott to the hotel at Canton, just before the assassination.

In the meantime, it was learned from authoritative source that three more murder warrants have been prepared and may be served before the day is over. These warrants will bear the names of prominent members of the Canton underworld.

CANTON BANKER DEFIES VICE RING

Canton, Aug. 18—Frank Collins, president of the First Trust & Savings Bank here, today challenged the vice ring that sought to intimidate him through exposure of alleged liquor purchases, to properly present their evidence.

In a large advertisement in the Canton Daily News, Collins stated that if it could be shown that any director, officer, or employe of the bank "has ever purchased one single cent's worth of illicit liquor since the passage of the Eighteenth amendment," that person would be immediately discharged.

Collins was one of the first Cantonians to make the demand that Mellett's murderers be caught and that conditions responsible for his death be eradicated.

Mystery Witness Valuable

A mystery witness, unearthed by Attorney Joseph R. Roach, has told a carefully linked set of claimed facts that will convict Louis Mazer of the murder, one investigating official declared today.

Mazer's "ivory-handled" revolver revealed as having been used in the murder, will play no little part in the conviction, the official stated.

Mazer's "ivory-handled" revolver, recopper jacketed bullets only. The evidence conclusively shows that a copper jacketed bullet was found at the scene of the crime.

Perhaps it was a copper-jacketed bullet that killed Mellett—that is being kept secret by the investigators.

Seek Mazer's Girl

Dolly Carry, known in the "jungle" as "Mazer's girl," was the object of a thorough search by operatives here today.

It was thought that if given an opportunity, "Mazer's girl" would talk.

Sworn affidavits by Norman Clark, young attorney here, that are to be substantiated by personal testimony when he faces the alleged murderer in Cleveland today, tell a story of Mazer's alleged action in telling Clark to "keep your mouth shut or you'll go too."

Norman Clark left for Cleveland early this morning.

Clark was formerly police prosecutor here, and since has defended bootleggers suspected of being in the huge conspiracy.

It has been said here that the attorney is in a position to relate much useful evidence and that he is now ready to talk.

Other testimony from reliable witnesses shows that Mazer left his pool-room in the jungle at about 11:30 on the night of the murder.

Seen at Mellett Home

One witness declared he saw the alleged assassin "circling the Mellett home" within a half hour of the crime. Mazer admits he left the home of Detective Floyd Streitenberger, about four blocks from the Mellett home, about 1:30 a. m., July 16—about an hour after the murder.

One bootlegger, quizzed early today here by Michael Glenn, private detective working with Roach, declared that Mazer had threatened him.

"He stuck a gun in my ribs and told me to keep quiet," the bootlegger, who won several medals for bravery during the war, declared.

"I told him he'd better look out, and when I said that I'd killed lots better men than he was—for $35 a month—he turned and walked away," the questioned man said.

The evidence shows, according to investigators, that Hamilton Captain Ben Clarke of the Canton police department was called from his home by the news of the murder; that he made a brief survey of the situation at the Mellett home, was warned by brother officers not to enter the home, and that he then returned to the police station and telephoned several surrounding cities, telling the police departments to "be on the lookout for any suspicious persons rushing through in an auto.

Little Evidence Then

Evidence, or information on the murder, was exceedingly vague at that time.

Ben Huebner, Massillon merchant, who served a term in Atlanta on a liquor conspiracy charge and who has been openly suspected in connection with the plot, declared that he was attending a party at the time the plot terminated.

Rudner until recently was a known enemy of Carl Studer, now being held in Cleveland on a charge of violating the national prohibition act. Rudner had declared that Studer desired to prevent his parole from the federal prison.

MAZER INNOCENT, DETECTIVE ASSERTS

Buffalo, Aug. 18—"Louis Mazer is innocent of the murder of Don R. Mellett," declared Floid E. Streitenberger, city detective of Canton, when informed today that Mazer is charged with the murder of the Canton editor.

"Mazer was at my home from midnight until 12:30 or 12:35 a. m., on the night of the killing and I will do anything I can to clear him," Streitenberger said.

Streitenberger, who is here attending a police convention, appeared surprised that Mazer had been charged with the murder. Mazer is understood to have told the investigators, in seeking to establish an alibi, that he was at the home of a Canton police official at the time that Mellett was shot down.

Streitenberger was very certain of the time that Mazer came to his home and of the approximate time that he left, he said. He admitted that Mazer had a reputation of being engaged in the sale of liquor, but described him as being of no importance in the Mellett case.

DENY INVESTIGATORS' RANKS ARE DIVIDED

Federal Building, Cleveland, Aug. 18—United States District Attorney A. E. Bernstein this afternoon categorically denied a story published today in a Cleveland newspaper that there was a split in the ranks of the Don R. Mellett murder investigators.

Both Bernstein and Attorney Joseph R. Roach were incensed over the alleged interview which Bernstein characterized as "faked."

After a conference, the two officials issued the following statement:

"The most harmonious relations exist between the various investigators and will continue to exist. There is no foundation for the reports that there is a split between federal and state officials."

Work of reconditioning the plant formerly occupied by the Studebaker-Wulff Rubber Co., Grand-av., purchased recently by Equipment Co., Inc., Trenton, N. J., will start next week, it was announced today by Hester S. Young, attorney for J. W. Jacoby, trustee in bankruptcy for the rubber company.

Attorney Jacoby denied today that the plant will be dismantled.

washed out along the Ohio's tributaries and crops throughout southern Ohio were being damaged by contemned rainfall.

Slight Recession

Despite the rain, water subsided slightly, leaving the summer cottages along the river banks in less dangerous positions.

During the highest stages of the river's last night water seeped through the floors of many lowland structures. Roads were impassable yet today at Foster's Crossing at South Lebanon and between Batavia and Milford. Lower streets in Cincinnati were at times impassable when sewers clogged.

No fatalities or serious accidents have yet resulted from the high water.

A STORY OF YOUTH AND LOVE

BY KATHARINE BRUSH

...e name was of course Peg's and never for an instant ... the age of fifty would she deny it. ... room was all Peg's—no mistaking ... here that one's clearest memory of ... Peg herself had painted ... and over them in ... and ... The walls were scarlet, and ... ers of every description ... scraps, dare-devil ... drawings, banners, a tattered ... a small blue satin slipper and ... all with a thousand ... a doll in a frame ... a tin dipper, the ... of a derby hat, a rubber doll ... empty champagne bottles, a ukulele ... taut strings, a remnant of a ballet ... suit, an Army officer's cap—... hung wildly on the wall, as ... Peg had stood in the doorway ... flung them and then had stood ... here she ... was a museum of ... a ... exhibit with its history ... and frequently ... ion of living exclusively in ... and ... never ... from ... Jones said ... she ... and ... Bones ... Bones never ... and explain ... to ... a ... and draw a fan ... diagrams. He's a dumbbell ... He's a ... guy, too, ... said Jock ... of the greatest. Peg agreed. ... him. But he's a dumbbell ... the first. I had a dumbbell ... not quite such a hopeless one as ... James. I never read stickers think ... but I've got ... and ... which he most ... Bones haven't. And I flatter myself ... I know a lot about people—except ... because I count on there ... object I ever really studied. Most ... them are the same. Cut off the ... piece of goods with the same pattern ... but you're not Jock. You're ... different. And what I can't understand ... why don't you ... so hard to ... up.

She fastened him with a stern glance. "You make me feel like a bee squirming ... on a pin," she cried. "Jock, amuse! Tell me ...

"How can I tell you? I don't know ... myself why I cover it up. It's instinctive. I'm afraid to let anyone see what's inside. I—I have an idea ... they're going to think it's a joke or ... something. Inhibited Peg. That's me all over."

"I think it's a shame," said Peg. "Why ...

"Why why? Why not? Because it isn't ... Its not fair to ... yourself ... others. If people with don't amount ... much can pretend they do and get ... over successfully, more power to 'em. I say. But for a person who does ... try to ... what ... make out he ... doesn't is— ... Sweetheart, I'm ... for the word. Not nodding ... she ... lapsed again on the pillows. "You're ... just a natural-born fool," she finished ... Jock roared. "Good Lord, Peg. But I don't ... to anything. You're—"

"And he won't even admit it to me!" sighed Peg. She sat up again, wagging a ... denunciatory finger. "Last night at dinner ... he said: 'We have tickets for the Symphony. Don't you three want to go?' I peeked over at you and your face was ... lit up like a new saloon. And they Bones call Hell no ... we're going with a bunch ... to Canfield Inn. Business of gloom-dousing and ... Harrill's countenance ... to normalcy. And what happens then? Why, you go to Canter Inn and fox-trot till three a.m. and drink rotten ... boors out of a teacup and pretend ... you're having the time of your life! Trouble is, Jock, you lack the courage of your convictions. Why couldn't you have come right out and said: 'I'd rather go to the Symphony.'"

"Oh that!" said Jock. "That was just silly. Music happens to be a weakness of mine, that's all. He grinned suddenly. "Say, you have got my number for sure, haven't you?"

Peg nodded appreciatively. "That's right, admit it! It's about time. Take off the old clown suit I know you."

"It's off," announced Jock. "Now what?"

"Now," said Peg, burrowing into her chair and leaning her head back, "tell me all about your girl."

Of a sudden this seemed extremely ... to tell Peg all about Yvonne. ... Jock had not known how ... he had wanted to tell someone about her ever since the Legionnaire ... how ... his heart had yearned for an audience sympathetic and comprehending as Peg would be.

So he told her. Hesitantly at first, he ... confession was to unaccustomed luxury with him, but waxing more loquacious as he went along. He described his meeting with Yvonne and the hours he had spent with her, and things she had done and said. He ... description. He told of his wretchedness and anguish of his days now when she was away. He talked for a long time, and his boyishly lovable and ... and very earnest.

When he had finished he felt better than he had felt in weeks. Although a tension had snapped. Telling someone, someone outside, how wonderful Yvonne was seemed to bring back her wonderfulness anew. It was almost like seeing her. What's been the matter with me," he wondered—thinking the things I have been thinking about her. They're not true. What I know they're not true. He was grateful to Peg, beyond words. It seemed to him that she had come, motionless, watching him, as he talked, she had helped him rid his mind of presumptions that were unworthy. His eyes wandered over her now, from the expanse of symmetrical silken legs to the bright hair and the nose. He smiled inwardly at Peg's nose. It was so appropriate to Peg. Impudent, gamin, and alert, and interested, looking, when she listened.

"Gosh," he said suddenly, "all Bones's lucky. I'd give anything if you were my sister."

He left Boston two days later and spent Christmas and the week following Christmas with his mother. The days at home were exact counterparts of the days at the Allen—jazz and jubilation—except for Peg. Long after he had returned to college she remained in his mind as the one oasis in an otherwise muddled and meaningless vacation.

MIDDLE AGE BRINGS NEW INTERESTS

For Women in Good Health

MRS HARVEY TUCKER
408 WALKER STREET SHELBYVILLE, IND

"Grow old along with me,
The best is yet to be"

When her children grown up, the middle-aged woman finds time to do the things she never had time to do before—read the new books, see the new plays, enjoy her grandchildren, take an active part in church and civic affairs. Far from being pushed aside by the younger set she finds a full, rich life of her own. That is if her health is good.

Thousands of women of middle age say they owe their vigor and health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Those who have learned through their own experience the merit of this dependable medicine are enthusiastic in recommending it to their friends and neighbors.

I had been in bad condition for three months. I could not do my work. One day I read what your medicine had done and just had a feeling that it would help me so I sent and got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had only taken half a bottle when I got up and started to do my work. It gave me an appetite, and helped me wonderfully. I can not praise this medicine highly enough. I surely will advise all women and girls to take it, and they don't have to use rouge to look healthy. My two daughters are taking it now and one is also using the Sanative Wash. I am willing to have you use this testimonial and I will answer letters from women asking about the medicine.—Mrs. Harvey Tucker, 408 Walker St. Shelbyville, Indiana.

I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the little books you give away and began to take the medicine. After the first few bottles I began to feel better and could eat better and had fewer headaches. I feel like a different person. At anytime that I don't feel good I take the Vegetable Compound again as I always keep a bottle on hand. You may use this letter for I mean every word is true. I will answer any letters sent to me.—Miss Jennie Bollerman, 516 Smith St., West Hoboken, N. J.

JIM DUGAN

Kearns Offers "Solution" to Heavyweight Mix-Up

BY DAVIS J WALSH

NEW YORK, Aug 18—Tex Rickard must go before the State Athletic Commission with the duly signed contracts of Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills

This is not an affirmation by the languid and lamentable license committee It is the candid belief of Jack Kearns an ex manager who doesn't happen to be afflicted with an ex brain

The suggested course was the only out Kearns today would concede Rickard that, paradoxically would permit that worthy to get away with his Dempsey Tunney enterprise Kearns laughed with refined moderation at the possibility that court action to be taken today or a shift of site to another city would solve the difficulty

OFFERS IDEAS

He had several ideas and all of them were good though seemingly contradictory For instance

Would a Dempsey Wills contract mean a Dempsey Wills match?

Not for a minute Would it mean a Dempsey Tunney match?

Without a doubt Why? Because Wills won't go through with a Dempsey bout on the terms laid down by the laws in this state

The alone are Mr Kearns sentiments not mine I have run out of bright ideas on this particular subject long since However Mr Kearns really knows his victuals

Dempsey Wills contract is the only thing that will get Rickard what he wants,' Kearns declared 'Let the champion sign it and then see whether Wills will do the same thing He won't Why? Because he wants $200,000 for the Dempsey shot and the regulation contracts in this state call for only 12½ per cent to any challenger

'At those figures Wills would miss his $200,000 by a good deal and then what about the $55,000 he got from those middle western promoters? He'd have to kick back with that and by the time he got through he wouldn't have half the money he wants for the match

Wills knows very well that he wouldn't sign a regulation state contract Mullins know it Rickard ought to know it too

'You know I'm more than casually interested in seeing that Dempsey gets this fight I've got a third coming to me and the best way to get it is to see that Dempsey gets the money

He'll get nothing in my opinion by going into court Oh the courts may give them favorable action, but doesn't Rickard realize that the democrats are not going to allow a republican attorney general who wants to run for lieutenant governor to take the play away from them on this thing? If Rickard gets the courts okay that license committee can turn around and revoke his license at the Yankee Stadium

"As for a shift to Philadelphia Rickard is likely to run into trouble there Commissioner White is a colored man and very pro Willis He is the man who wired Jim Farley that Dempsey Tunney match would be a fake and some time ago followed Tunney into his dressing room to speak in slighting terms of his ability and his ethics

"So there is only one out and Rickard must take it or the whole proposition must take the air

Fortune is seldom seen in the company of a loafer.

Tribe Drops Two Games to A's; Reds Defeat Phillies

THE Cincinnati Reds renewed their application for the National League lead yesterday when Carl Mays undermined the Phillies 8 to 2 with his submarine ball, turning in his fifth straight victory

Waxland Dean who was the first of the Quaker hurlers to inflict a defeat on the Reds this season could not repeat his sterling performance of that earlier occasion and lasted only three rounds being driven off the hill by a volley of scorching blows in the third round

Bacchi in Form

Willoughby who showed so much promise last year but has not come through as well as expected this season was also wafted away by the heavy log of Red blows in the fifth

Bacchi the big green right hander who manages to break into almost every game with the Phillies wound it up in style allowing only one man on in the last three innings but the portion came too late

THE Cleveland Indians rank peril ously close to third place when they dropped a double header to the Mackmen 9 to 4 and 6 to 4

Only two things brought solace to the hearts of Cleveland well wishers in a black afternoon of baseball yesterday One was the pair of doubles by George Burns in the second game, bringing his total for the season to 56 and leaving him but three short of Ty Cobb for the world record

Hudlin Comes Back

The other was the remarkable come back of young Willis Hudlin the Indians Texas recruit who was so nervous in his big league debut in Cleveland Sunday he couldn't get the ball over

Relieving Miller in the third (Miller had relieved Shaute and done a terrible job of it) Hudlin worked nine and one third innings allowed but two scratch hits walked only one man and fanned one His work was the brightest spot of the afternoon

Two hurlers Jessen and Buckeye could do nothing with the Athletics in the first game Howard Ehmke hurled well but Mack replaced him with Heffy Grove in the seventh after the Tribe had scored three runs in the sixth

Billy Southworth's second homer of the afternoon with two men on bases enabled the Cardinals to nose out Brooklyn 8 to 7 St Louis is now only one game behind Pittsburgh

Guy Bush of the Cubs again took the role of giant killer by holding the New Yorkers to two hits and winning under wraps 7 to 0 Bush didn't walk a man and not a Giant got past first base

Although the Yanks lost to the White Sox 5 to 4 in a five inning affair in which Catcher Pat Collins broke all altitude records for throwing to bases New York's lead jumped to nine games

The back bay section was thrown into an uproar as the Red Sox thrashed the Browns twice 5 to 1 and 4 to 0 Heimach and Welzer did the pitching and lots of it

HEYDLER CLEARS OUSTED PIRATES

Both Sides Satisfied with Decision Reached by National Loop Head

Pittsburgh Aug 18—The decision of John A Heydler president of the National League who was called in to settle differences between the Pittsburgh Pirates and three veteran players ousted for insubordination today was received with satisfaction by both sides

The players two of whom were given their unconditional release and waivers asked on the third indefinite they were satisfied that their names had been cleared and would make no effort to regain their jobs

Heydler held that the matter was purely one of internal strife on the club and for that reason declined to make public testimony of the players and owners at the hearing The Dodgers were expected to claim Cates today No announcement has been made concerning the future of Bighee and Adams

More!

To smoke a LUCKY STRIKE is to not only get all that is found in any other cigarette. . . . .

But more! Much more. More than the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and blended.

At a great expense in extra machinery and labor, LUCKY STRIKE tobaccos are toasted.

"IT'S TOASTED" That means it is subjected to intense heat for 45 minutes which (1) removes all "bite" and harshness and which (2) develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. Then (3) sudden chilling seals in the moist fragrance, insuring constant freshness.

These improvements have won millions of critical smokers to LUCKY STRIKES.

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

day, as he was crossing the having been to the ice cave of Whitewash the polar bear to get Uncle Wiggily heard a great ng and laughing

e animal children must be hav good time thought the rabbit man But when he drew closer ard calls of ho! Peetie Bow Wow! What ow about you! Peetie's a fraid cat! Peetie's a fraid cat!

cle Wiggily crawled under the as his rheumatism was hurting but dry and there he saw Sam nd Susie Littletail Charlie and Chuck and Jollie and Julia and the mice standing in a ring, poor Peetie pointing their tails their paws at him and singing

It was a black swan with a long neck and a red beak and very fierce and cross it looked Spreading out his wings the black swan paddled over close to where Uncle Wiggily was looking for Mrs Wibblewobble and the swan honked

What do you want? Get away from here! I have just flown in from the ocean and this is my pond! Get away!" Oh wasn't he the selfish creature? Before Uncle Wiggily could answer him the black swan raised his wings and was going to hit the rabbit gentleman for that is the way such swans and there wings are very strong

But all of a sudden out of the bushes at the bank of the pond rushed Peetie Bow Wow barking as hard as he could bark

Don't you dare hurt Uncle Wiggily! snarled Peetie I'll nip that long neck of yours if you do And he made such a fuss and looked so brave and strong did little Peetie that the black swan honked loudly and paddled to the other side of the pond

"What do you want?" the Swan honked.

Brave dog Peetie! Brave dog! cried Uncle Wiggily A black swan is much fiercer than a turkey gobbler and you saved me! And then all the animal boys and girls who had called Peetie fraid cat said they were sorry when they heard how brave he was against the big black swan They wanted to know how he did it

Pooh It was easy! barked Peetie But at the same time his heart was beating very fast So everything came out all right And if the stove brush for boiling over I'll tell you next about doesn't get the tea kettle a black mark Uncle Wiggily and the mail bag

SPECULATIVE STOCKS JOIN IN PRICE DROP

Professional Selling Pressure Force Decline in Industrial Issues

New York Aug 18—Most of the industrial speculative stocks declined to the lower price levels at some period in today's irregular session chiefly as the result of professional selling pressure designed to force a decline in market values

A sharp rally on the railroad stocks in the early part of the day in the course of which a few of the well known issues in that group reached record high prices was the outstanding constructive event of the day so far as the stock market was concerned But even this was short lived and not impressive enough to stimulate heavy buying of the industrial shares which yielded to the persistent selling pressure of the professionals

An early decline of General Motors to 201 and United States Steel to 152¼ down 7 points from yesterday's high unsettled the industrial stock list and liquidation proceeded in fairly large volume in the copper stocks and other important groups In the hunt for weak spots the issues offered the greatest resistance to liberal quantities breaking Simms to 15¼ and Stromberg to 21

Attacks on Cooper's Campaign Fund Partisan Propaganda, Warner Says

Marion Man, Head of State Committee, Defends G O P Candidate; Assails Methods Used in Donahey's Primary Drive

Columbus Aug 18— Allegations that expenditures during the primary campaign on behalf of Myers Y Cooper Cincinnati republican governorship nominee were excessive constitute part of the propaganda that the democrats plan using in their campaign this fall declared Fred W Warner Marion chairman of the Republican State Central Committee here today

DEMOCRATIC LEADER REPEATS CHARGES

Columbus Aug 18— Charges that the expenditures of Myers Y Cooper Cincinnati republican nominee for governor exceeded the legal limits were unfounded in a private investigation were reiterated here today by Thomas F Dye democratic state chairman

Meanwhile reports were rife politicians as to what the final will be

COOPER READY FOR INVESTIGATION

Cincinnati Aug 18— Whether state officials will be called upon to make an investigation of the campaign expenditures of Myers Y Cooper in an effort to prove charges concerning the report of excessive sums made by his opponent as the primary campaign was drawing to a close remained a matter of conjecture here today

I have no idea if anyone will want to make such a charge I am interested only in figures as $50 000 however
